Better hearing and Speech Month

This week's topic for Better Hearing and Speech Month is hearing. Did you know that more than half of high school students report at least one symptom of hearing loss? Teenagers are listening to their iPods and other MP3 players for longer periods and at higher volumes, which can cause damage to your ears. This can impact your grades and your ability to follow directions in the classroom. If you have to ask people to repeat what they say, you have to turn your ear toward a sound to hear it, or if you hear better when you're looking directly at someone's face, you could have a hearing loss. So, turn down your iPod and listen to your music safely. Your ears will be grateful. For more information about hearing loss and the "Listen to Your Buds" Campaign, visit our speech pathologist, Mrs. Rutz.
